State Rules Out Local Election

Pickaway, New Holland To Battle For Third Place In Tournament

Monroe's Bowshier Sets Scoring Mark With 33 Points In Tilt

A pint-sized speed merchant with an eye for the basket set a new record for high individual scoring during Pickaway County tournaments in Fairgrounds Coliseum Wednesday night.

He is Bob Bowshier of the Monroe Township team, who tickled the netting for a total of 33 points when his team met the Pickaway Pirates in a semi-final match in the loser bracket.

Bowshier carved a spot for himself by darting in and out between his comparative gigantic opponents to dominate the play.

The diminutive forward, all 5' 6" of him, went all out in the

Wind Up Season

On Unbeaten List

Darby Township reserve basketball team ended its 1949 season in a flourish of glory Wednesday night when it defeated Ashville juniors by a narrow 23-22 edge.

Played as an exhibition tilt to the Pickaway County tournament proceedings, the encounter packed all of the punch of a varsity match with a climactic finish.

The Wednesday win gave the Darby Townshipers an undefeated season in 19 starts. The quintet scored a total of 728 points during the season for an overall average of 38.3 points per tilt, while holding its opposition to only 340 points, or an average of 17.8 points per loss.

Darby opened its Wednesday contest on top by a 7-4 first quarter lead, but at halftime trailed the Ashvillers on the short end of a 10-9 tally.

ASHVILLE AGAIN outscored the Darby crew in the third canto to tally a four-point, 19-15 lead going into the final round.

The Darby subs pounced on Ashville's lead in the last three minutes of play, however, annexing the lead with a 21-20 count immediately following the automatic time out.

Darby's John Riddle added a point to his team's lead with a free throw in the last one minute of playing time, but Ashville's Paul Stevens deadlocked the score at 22-all with a push shot with but 15 seconds of playing time remaining.

Paul Downs of Darby turned the tide for the victors with only four seconds remaining when he dropped in a single charity toss for the win.

Balmy Weather May Be Ending

Ohio's balmy weather continued Thursday but a cold air mass in the Hudson Bay area may move into the state and bring real winter weather over the weekend.

Forecasters said the Canadian high pressure system might move eastward instead and it won't be until Friday before the course of the cold mass can be charted.

FEW PRESBYTERIANS REMEMBER OLD STORY

Forgotten Tablet Is Replaced To Tell Tale Of Pastor Buried Under Church Tower Here

Somewhere a bell tolled. The small group huddled closer, listening to the solemn words of the minister.

They watched the casket containing the body of the Rev. James Rowland sink out of sight. A shovel scraped.

Slowly the congregation of the late pastor filed out of the basement, gathered for a moment in the street before the new church to speak in low tones. Then they dispersed.

Last week a memorial tablet was set in the southwest tower wall of the Presbyterian church on East Mound street. It tells with brief dignity that the body of Dr. James Rowland, who died Nov. 9, 1854, rests beneath the tower.

He became pastor of the church in 1844 and during the ten years until his death worked to have a new church erected. The old one, a one-story brick building, was no longer adequate.

Dr. Rowland died before the new building was completed. The first service held in the church was his funeral service. It was held in the basement, the only section completed.

His congregation, as a gesture of appreciation for the work he had accomplished, obtained permission to bury him beneath the belfry. A tablet was erected in the entrance.

In 1899, the church was torn down and a new one erected in its place. The body of Dr. Rowland was disinterred and moved about eight feet to keep it beneath the tower, according to Louis H. Mebs, local contractor.

The memorial tablet was stored away in a small room. The forgotten, dust-covered tablet was found last week by Mebs, who suggested to church authorities that it be set in the tower wall. Permission to do so was granted. It is well that the tablet again is displayed. Few indeed are the present members of the church who remembered the story of Rev. Mr. Rowland.

And there undoubtedly is a large number of Presbyterians who even realize that the late pastor's body lies under the great tower of their church.

Poll Board Said Without Discretion

Miller-Adkins Writs Tagged As Illegal

Ohio's attorney general, Herbert S. Duffy ruled in Columbus Thursday that the Pickaway County board of election can not accept either of two petitions of candidacy filed Feb. 1 for the Democratic nomination for mayor of Circleville.

The opinion may save Circleville the cost (estimated at $3,000) of a primary election in May since there is no other contest.

However, Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney pointed out the remote possibility of filing for mayor as independent candidates. He did not immediately elaborate on this statement.

Duffy ruled that the petitions were voided because they contained more than the maximum of 25 signatures specified by law.

Thurman I. Miller, the incumbent, filed 116 signatures and Councilman Robert E. Adkins filed 171.

The opinion was requested by Pickaway County Prosecutor Guy G. Cline.

CLINE, A STICKLER for detail also included in his request answers to numerous other angles in the case including a statement on procedure for filing as independent candidates.

Duffy's Thursday statement did not include other than that the Miller-Adkins petitions should be tossed out. It was assumed Duffy would answer all of Cline's questions later.

In his opinion, Duffy held the board had no discretion in the matter because the law definitely provides that petitions shall be signed by not less than five nor more than 25 qualified electors.

Duffy held that "the language chosen by the legislature is as strong and forceful as the legislature could use."

The attorney general cited the Burgstaller case, which was carried to the state supreme court last year from the Franklin County board of elections in Columbus.

In that case, the high court disqualified numerous county candidates for the central com-

Truck Smashes Rear Half Of Car In Mishap

An auto was almost completely demolished and a tractor-trailer outfit damaged in a mishap on Route 23 a half mile north of Circleville late Wednesday. Both operators received only minor injuries, however.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells reported that a semi-truck had run over the rear of a car, plunged over a four-foot embankment and flopped over on its side.

Wells said the 1939 auto was being driven north on Route 23 by Harold Hall, 25, of Louisa, Ky., who attempted to pass a dairy truck where the old traction line formerly crossed the highway.

The patrolman said that as Hall drew abreast the truck, driven by Russell Heffner of Circleville Route 3, he apparently noticed the semi outfit bearing

Pressure Groups Get Lausche Chill

Schools, Cities, Employes Agree State To Have Little Surplus

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24—Gov. Frank Lausche bluntly warned schools, local governments and state employes today that their requests for an additional $122 million in state subsidies would be ignored in the preparation of his budget.

Lobbyists of the three groups were forced to admit, in a two-hour conference in the governor's office, that he was justified to the extent that there would be no increases in revenues available.

At the end of the conference with some two-score representatives of cities, counties, schools, business, farms, labor, and other state offices, Lausche boldly called their hands by demanding if any one of them believed revenues in 1949 would exceed those of last year.

Not one hand was raised.

Earlier in the conference the governor declared:

"MY OWN VIEW is that revenues, at the very best, will only be equal to 1948's, and in all probability will be less. It is on that basis that I contemplate preparation of the appropriation bill of 1949-50."

The governor drew from the conferees admissions that the local governments were asking $54 million more for the biennium; the schools a total of $58.5 million, and the state employes $10 million.

But not one of the representatives would estimate revenues, and in particular sales tax revenues, to be higher this year than they were last.

Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander estimated sales tax revenues this year at $126 million as against $135 million in 1948. Michael Disalle, mayor of Toledo and president of the League of Ohio Municipalities, placed them at $130 million, as did Cleveland Finance Director Frank Hanrahan and Walton Bliss, executive director of the Ohio Education Association.

Dr. Arch Schultz, statistician for the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, set a low of $122.5 million.

Liquor Director Oscar Fleckner asserted that liquor profits indicated a drop of about $700,000 for the year. However, Secretary of State Charles Sweeney suggested this could be offset by abolishing the enforcement division of the liquor department, thus saving $800,000 a year, and placing enforcement in the hands of local police.

Lausche has taken the position that, if revenues remain equal to last year's total from all sources of $270 million, there will be only $4 million available for all requested increases.

The chief executive said he is very happy that England is on the road to recovery and he hopes what the British spokesman is reported to have said is entirely true.

The President was then asked whether he meant that the Marshall Plan should be continued through the full four years, as originally planned.

Mr. Truman said if it takes four years, certainly it should be continued for that period; if European Recovery can be achieved in less than four years, it will be a very happy situation.

Mr. Truman was asked, in view of this statement, whether the United States should continue to pour its resources into England under the Marshall Plan.

The President replied bluntly that the Marshall Plan should be continued until European recovery is assured.

The President was then asked whether he meant that the Marshall Plan should be continued through the full four years, as originally planned.

Mr. Truman said if it takes four years, certainly it should be continued for that period; if European Recovery can be achieved in less than four years, it will be a very happy situation.

That is all I shall say until I have had time to digest what has already been said both by Moscow and in America."

Mrs. Strong then turned and

Bitter Fight Predicted On FEPC Ruling

Committee Approves Discrimination Bill

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24—The first bitter phase in the fight to place an FEPC law on Ohio's statute books ended today with the house industry and labor committee recommending an anti-discrimination bill for passage by a 10-to-5 vote.

Under house rules, the bill will come up for a vote in the house early next week.

Rep. Guy C. Hiner (R-Stark) joined with the nine Democratic committee members in favoring passage of the bill. Otherwise it was a party-line vote.

The action was taken after a house session which featured approval of a resolution barring lobbyists from the house chamber during sessions. The vote on this measure was 66-40.

The FEPC measure is that approved by Gov. Frank Lausche and patterned on the law in operation in New York state. It bans employment discrimination on the basis of race, color or creed.

Supervision of the proposed law would be by a five-member commission, whose members would receive $25 a day, and a full-time secretary who would receive $8,000 a year.

THE BILL as drafted applied to all employers of three or more persons, but the committee changed that figure to 12.

South Africa Altered Against More Rioting

CAPETOWN, Feb. 24—South African naval and military forces were ordered to stand by today for immediate action in the port city of Durban where African Zulus are reported planning a new attack on the Indian population.

An announcement said that police with armored cars will stage a demonstration in force at all potential danger spots in Durban during the afternoon.

Substantial reinforcements have been sent to the city, where hundreds of Indians were killed and injured in a massacre by Zulu natives a few weeks ago.

Precautionary measures were taken after an Indian witness testified to a commission investigating the recent disorders that pamphlets were circulated among the Zulus inciting them to new riots tomorrow and over the weekend.

"I haven't seen such a big paper for a long time."

When a correspondent told her he had a New York newspaper for her, Mrs. Strong wanly smiled and said she would appreciate looking it over, adding:

"I haven't seen such a big paper for a long time."

En route to New York, Mrs.

Egypt-Israel Sign War-Ending Pact

UN Mediator Ready To Start Talks With Other Arab States

RHODES, Feb. 24—Egypt and Israel today signed an armistice agreement aimed at restoring permanent peace to war-weary Palestine.

The historic signing ceremony in Hotel Delle Rhodes here was regarded as the initial step toward eventual settlements between Israel and the six other Arab League nations.

The agreement was reached after six weeks of intense negotiation under the guidance of Acting United Nations Mediator Ralph J. Bunche, who will conduct talks between Trans-Jordan and Israel starting Monday.

Iraq and Saudi Arabia have already indicated their willingness to abide by the Egyptian armistice, while Israeli pacts with Syria and Lebanon are believed imminent.

Yemen—the seventh Arab state which warred on Israel—was never a factor in the nine-month war which saw the Zionist army triumph over its Middle East neighbors.

Under terms of the armistice, Israel will retain most of the contested Southern Palestine Negev desert.

THE FLEDGLING state—which has ambitious plans to develop the area with colonists—received the Negev lands awarded under the UN partition plan, and other localities occupied during two lightning offensives in 1948.

In effect, the Israelis now control almost the entire Negev, which is reportedly rich in untapped minerals and oil, as well as being a potential agricultural area.

Egypt, retains a small coastal strip running from Gaza to Ra-

14 Cardinal Aides Face Trial

BUDAPEST, Feb. 24—The Hungarian government announced today that 14 alleged accomplices of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty will stand trial Feb. 28 on charges of illegal currency dealings.

The 14 persons, who will appear before a "workers court," include three Roman Catholic priests, 10 bankers and brokers, and Dr. Gabor Horvath, secretary to Prince Paul Esterhazy, a co-defendant of the imprisoned cardinal.

Ousted Author Refuses To Clear Up Mystery Around Her

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—Dr. Anna Louise Strong, noted American writer expelled from Russia on sabotage and espionage charges, pleaded today for "persons of conscience" not to use her case as an excuse to "inflammatory international friction."

The 64-year-old Nebraska-born authoress and lecturer stubbornly refused to clear up the mystery surrounding her arrest when she arrived in New York.

But, she indicated that she did not know the reason for her deportation. Mrs. Strong, alternately declined to talk and then made brief statements when her plane stopped at Gander, Newfoundland, en route from Paris to La Guardia airport, where it landed at 12:45 a. m. (EST).

Mrs. Strong, believed to be pro-Communist, had played hide-and-seek with newsmen on two continents since the surprising Moscow announcement of her arrest on Feb. 15. The tall, grey-haired woman eluded waiting newsmen when her plane arrived at Gander.

When found, the author, who has written scores of books considered pro-Soviet during her long stay in Russia, at first refused all comment. Obviously upset and pale, she later asked the newsmen to "take some notes."

She searched through a large pocket-book and took out a postcard on which notes were scribbled in Russian, and dictated:

"Do not use me to inflame international friction. This is today's first charge on persons of conscience."

"That is all I shall say until I have had time to digest what has already been said both by Moscow and in America."

Mrs. Strong then turned and fled from the room. When correspondents caught up with her, she was asked whether she had been expelled because she wrote Premier Stalin was "mentally unbalanced."

Mrs. Strong laughed and gave a brisk "no comment," and again took to her heels.

A few moments later she was discovered resting in a reclining soft chair in the customs office and when correspondents approached she waved them away with "no comment, no comment."

En route to New York, Mrs.

"I haven't slept for some time," she asserted in a tired voice as she adjusted her spectacles.

Mrs. Strong, who married a Russian agriculturalist, Joel Shumlin, in 1932, was questioned on whether she knew why she was deported from Russia.

She shrugged her shoulders and asked in reply:

"What did the papers say?"

When the correspondent told her "espionage and subversive activities," Mrs. Strong smiled broadly but refused to comment, explaining:

"I must digest what has been said before I make any further comment."

The writer refused to state where she was deported from Russia, or when.

Mrs. Strong pointed to a newspaper story which said she left Warsaw, Poland, yesterday by train for Paris, where she boarded a plane.

"Plain common sense and arithmetic shows I didn't leave Warsaw yesterday," she replied.

She then suddenly clamped down her own "iron curtain" on the correspondent and flatly refused to talk. On the 1,000-mile flight from Gander to New York, Mrs. Strong fled from her front seat to the rear of the plane whenever she was approached.

Finally, she covered herself and told the newsmen:

"Go away."

She chanted: "no comment, no comment, no comment."

When told the American embassy had tried to contact her in Moscow, without success, Mrs. Strong laughed loudly. She refused to explain what struck her so funny, and again refused additional comment.

Poll Board Said Without Discretion

 mitted because their petitions contained more than the maximum of five signatures specified by law.

Duffy pointed out that "less forceful" language construed in the Burger case was held to be mandatory in character. He continued:

"WE CAN FIND no authority that a discretion... is vested in the board of elections."

The attorney general further ruled that the board was not required to go into the validity of the signatures on the two disqualified petitions.

He pointed out that the law refers to the number of signatures "appearing" on a petition, and, since the apparent number was more than 25, the petition must be disregarded.

The county board of elections has approved petitions filed by other Democratic candidates in the city election. No Republican filed.

Seeking the seat to be vacated by Council President Luther Bower is Ben Gordon, former councilman and mayor.

Councilmen seeking reelection are Ray Anderson, Ray Cook, Boyd Horn and Ralph Wallace. Seeking election for the first time after his appointment to a vacant seat will be Dr. E. L. Montgomery.

MAKING A comeback after a two-year absence as councilman will be George Crites. He seeks the seat no longer wanted by Councilman Fred Brown, who was elected two years ago.

George Gerhardt has filed for reelection as city solicitor and Everett Stocklen seeks return to the office of city treasurer.

As the matter stands, there is one seat on council unsought. Unless a write-in is successful, the elected councilmen will be required to name someone to serve the term.

Zwayer Estate Aide Is Named

Benjamin Miller of Columbus has been appointed executor of the estimated $228,000 George Zwayer estate in Pickaway County probate court.

The brothers were conducted to the prison Thursday morning by Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff, and were to have begun serving their terms Thursday noon.

 lead, and guardedly coasted in to the final 54-49 victory.

Ned Wolfe of Pickaway ranked second in scoring to Bowshier in the scrap with his total of 23 points.

Five trophies are to be awarded following the Friday night playoffs. They will be the championship tournament trophy for the winner, second place for losing, and consolation for winner of the loser bracket; selection and presentation of good sportsmanship trophy, judged on the team, cheerleaders and fans; and the awarding of the reserve league trophy to undefeated Darby reserves.

A SIXTH trophy is the goal of individual players. It is the Bob Bowshier Memorial Trophy which will go to the county's most outstanding player.

Announcement of the winner will be made as soon as the coaches, who make the selection alone, reach their decision.

This trophy, donated by The Circleville Herald, was won last year by James Picklesimer of Williamsport.

Walnut and Ashville are slated to meet for the tournament championship in the final game Friday night, while New Holland and Pickaway will battle for third place in the preliminary engagement.

Both Ashville and Walnut are assured of berths on the three-team Pickaway County delegation to the district tournament, while Pickaway and New Holland will be battling for the third seat.

Schedule for the tournament windup Friday is as follows: 7:30 p. m.—Pickaway vs. New Holland (L).

9 p. m.—Ashville vs. Walnut (W).

Doors will be opened at 6:30 p. m.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—Southern senators map their strategy today against the most crucial threat they ever faced in their reliance on the filibuster to block racial legislation.

Income Tax Quirk Saves Local Pair Total Of $2

A rare combination of figures saved a Circleville man and wife two dollars on their income tax Wednesday.

In general, the Bureau of Internal Revenue advises married couples to combine incomes and file joint returns. It is cheaper that way.

But Wednesday Deputy Collectors J. H. Taylor and R. F. Truxax of the Columbus office found themselves advising a couple to file separate returns. The figures went like this:

The wife's income was $836, for which the income tax bill is $26. The husband had made $1,616, calling for a payment of $141. Total tax bill for separate returns is $167. The filing of a joint return on the total income of the couple would cost $169.

"It only happens like that on rare occasions," said Taylor.

Chicken Thieves' Profits High

They collected the profits, and farmers took the loss. It must have seemed like a fine business to Virgil Massie and his son, Eldon, both of Wellston.

Until Chillicothe police arrested them Saturday on a charge of stealing chickens in Pickaway and Fayette Counties, that is.

Last year the Massies netted $1,019.95 from the sale of stolen chickens, according to Sheriff Charles Radcliff. This year's total had reached $266.33 he added.

Both have been turned over to Fayette County Sheriff Orland Hays who is holding them on a charge of breaking and entering, Sheriff Radcliff said.

Mr. Jesse Hopes Heaven Will Be Mite Like Texas

HOUSTON, Feb. 24 — Jesse Jones hopes heaven will be a mite like Texas.

Eventually, he'll be happy just to be inside the pearly gates, this patron saint of Texas and patriarch of Houston said today.

But as this big, handsome man sat in his big, handsome office in one of the many big, handsome buildings he owns in Houston, he cautiously opined that he would be a bit more at home if some part of heaven is like the Lone Star State.

As "Mister Jesse" spoke—he's "Mr. Jesse" throughout Texas—the implication was rather plain that it could hardly be heaven and not be like Texas.

This was spoken like a gentleman and a true Texan. And who has a better right? For almost 50 years, the destiny of Texas and that of Jesse Jones, lumber king, builder, banker, publisher, public servant, philanthropist and renowned poker player, have been inextricably combined.

By general consent he is the First Citizen of Texas. From time to time, the state has leased him to the United States government to serve as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., as federal loan administrator, as chairman of the Import-Export Bank, as secretary of commerce, as member of the War Production Board, and on many other federal boards and commissions in need of sound financial acumen.

BUT ALWAYS, his heart has belonged to Texas, and vice-versa.

Mister Jesse is one of the fabulous Horatio Alger success stories with which Texas runs over. And, oddly enough, Mister Jesse's success didn't come with oil, which has produced in Texas

Jesse moved over to Houston, a move surcharged with kismet for both the man and the town. Houston had only 40,000 residents in those days, and Mr. Jesse had hardly that many pennies to his name. But he went into the lumber business on a shoe string.

NOW, HOUSTON'S metropolitan area boasts approximately 700,000 persons and Mr. Jesse is a genuine Texas tycoon. He literally owns the Houston skyline. No less than 33 business buildings, including the town's tallest skyscraper, the 38-story Gulf Bldg., are Jones property. He also owns a big Houston bank and its most prosperous newspaper, the Chronicle.

There is a legend in Houston that in a recent bond election, in which citizens must own property to be eligible to vote, Mr. Jesse couldn't prove he owned a thing. Asked if this were true, Mr. Jesse chewed his gum placidly for a moment. He fingered the big elk's tooth on the end of his watch chain, looked kinda pleased as he smiled and said: "Well, I couldn't prove that I owned anything. But I wouldn't say I didn't vote."

Mr. Jesse operates his vast real estate interests here, in Fort Worth, Dallas and New York, through corporations. But he believes he could prove he owns his household furnishings if necessary.

Just how rich Mr. Jesse is, nobody knows and certainly he himself isn't saying. Maybe 25, maybe 50, maybe 100 millions. Maybe more.

But Mr. Jesse, in his big office lined with the pictures of Presidents Wilson, Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman, just chews gum and says, with scarcely more than the trace of a smile: "I'm not a millionaire. I'm just a workhorse."

But, obviously, in a class with Citation.

Stored Feed Check Urged Of Farmers

Poison Molds Said Possible

Pickaway County livestock feeders have been warned to check their stored feeds frequently, from now until pasture season, to guard against the danger of poisonous molds.

Hazards of moldy feed may be especially dangerous now, local experts point out, because of the large supplies of farm feeds placed in storage after last year's bumper crops.

Certain molds, forming on grain, silage and hay, cause serious and sometimes fatal diseases of all species of livestock, according to this warning.

"Moldy corn can cause a disease very similar to sleeping sickness in horses and a serious genital disease in swine," one observer said.

"ONE TYPE of fungus can cause lumpy-jaw in cattle. Moldy clover hay may be responsible for sweet-clover disease, which causes the blood of cattle to lose its clotting ability. Ergot poisoning may be a serious problem. One type of pneumonia in poultry and calves is caused by a grain fungus. Several skin diseases of animals are due to fungi.

"Naturally, the main precaution is to avoid using moldy feed. If mold poisoning is suspected in livestock, then a veterinary diagnosis should be obtained at once. Symptoms may be similar to those of some contagious infection, and proper treatment will depend on the true cause of trouble."

Record Cattle Run Reported

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—The largest cattle run for a Wednesday in more than a year arrived at Chicago stockyards.

The run was 13,000 head. Bidding prices were 50 cents to $1 lower a hundred weight with no early sales.

This marks the first time in over two weeks that bidding prices for cattle were lower. Twelve markets had 55,600 head as against 52,600 last week and 37,700 a year ago.

On the Pacific coast the coastline of the U. S. is 1,366 miles; on the Atlantic the distance is 1,588 miles.

BARBARA MOSS HONORED

County's Healthiest Girl To Speak At State Meet

Barbara Moss of Salt Creek Township, winner of the 1948 "healthiest Pickaway County 4-H Club Girl" contest, is to be a speaker in the state conference on rural health in Columbus Monday.

Miss Moss, member of the Salt Creek Township Victory Stitches Club, will speak upon the intensified health program sponsored here in the last three years.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, was instrumental in assisting the 4-H'ers in their health achievements by giving personal examinations to all members.

The doctor added a list of recommendations for corrections to the group, which were followed by 90 percent of the members found with defects.

IN 1946 only 138 4-H'ers turned out for the examinations, while in 1947 the number increased to 178 and in 1948 expanded to 373.

Miss Moss also will explain the program sponsored by her club which included testing drinking water supplies, detecting farm accident hazards and used a nutritional yardstick to check upon good food habits.

The Salt Creek Township lass is to deliver her address following dinner at 6 p. m. Monday.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Moss, and her 4-H Club advisers are Mrs. Leslie Dearth and Mrs. Harley Lutz.

How's Your Listening Time?

Buck Howell and I were in Baltimore last week. Dropped in at Bob's diner where some friends were sitting around talking about whether to sell hogs now or wait.

Buck plunges right into the discussion. He's lecturing away when suddenly they all stand up and start stomping their feet like it was an Indian war dance.

I'm flabbergasted. But Buck only looked sheepish and explains, "Guess I was talking again, when I should've been listening. When a person's talking time gets out of line with his listening time around here, the gang reminds him by standing up and stomping."

From where I sit, that's a good system. Everyone has a right to his opinions—but others have a right to theirs, too—whether it's deciding between to sell or not to sell, apple pie or cherry pie, or a glass of mellow beer or cider. ## FERTILIZER PLANS SET

Shrinking Profit Margin Hiking Farm Quality Goal

The feeding of a thousand pounds of beef cattle on grass removes 23 pounds of nitrogen, 15 pounds of phosphate and two pounds of potash from the soil, according to James A. Muster, manager of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service for Pickaway County.

"As a result, a number of Pickaway County livestock farmers are going to use fertilizers on their pastures this Spring, both commercial nitrogen as found in ammonium sulphate and such mixed fertilizers as 3-12-12 and 4-12-8.

"With the closing of the spread between prices farmers receive for their products and the prices they pay for consumer goods, their margin of profit has been shrinking.

"Production of cheap but high quality livestock feed offers an opportunity to diminish this trend, and that is the reason for the interest in fertilizers to increase production and quality of pasture crops," Muster said.

PASTURE specialists in Ohio recommend using 400 to 500 pounds of fertilizer per acre, such as 0-20-10 or 20 percent phosphate as an initial application.

This is followed by similar applications every third or fourth year. An application of manure hastens pasture growth.

"Lime for use on pastures is also important, and where enough is used to correct soil acidity, a half to one pound of Ladino clover is suggested to help maintain the nitrogen content of the soil and improve the protein content of the herbage.

"Straight nitrogen, used early, will produce early growth. For those needing such pasture the use of 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre should prove profitable.

"The fact that pasturing off crops reduces soil fertility as surely as does the harvesting of other crops has not received sufficient attention during the recent era of high prices for cash crops," Muster declared.

PLAIN COMMON SENSE

THE CHIEF need in this business of brotherhood is an ample measure of just plain common sense. High sounding language and reaching out for the millennium all at once will not produce a thing.

People—races, creeds, and nationalities—have their differences. And those differences are going to remain. They are as natural and unavoidable as the sunrise—whether or not the day happens to be clear.

In their grossly overt and socially damaging manifestations, they can be and have been dealt with by legislation but no law can abolish or change a fundamental situation.

We have these differences in this country—although, thank heaven, not to the degree that they exist in various other parts of the world.

Doctrines of hatred and ill will go against the grain with the great majority of American people. They always have, and even more so today, than ever before.

We can build on this long established foundation; build with sanity and with a recognition of the plain fact that rights and privileges of the few or the majority cannot be served by a denial of those same rights to others.

There is room for all in this country, but no room for the pettiness and intolerance that breed danger for all. The simple demand is a broader and continued use of the basic principles of the democracy we profess as an example to all mankind.

EATING TO LIVE

LONGEVITY in itself cannot be regarded as an unmixed blessing when, to a thoughtful observer, it is obvious in far too many cases that added years of life mean only added infirmities.

For several reasons people are, however, living longer on the average than in the past. To try to make these bonus years mean continued productivity and wide usefulness, medical men are devoting much time nowadays to the study of degenerative diseases.

Dr. Charles Glen King, scientific director of the Nutrition Foundation, is convinced that malnutrition is a major factor in the origin and course of such diseases. He has stated that the 18 years of added life which children now may expect may be made "years of vigorous living, not just survival," if the rules for good nutrition are followed all along the way.

It is more trouble to plan and prepare a balanced meal, but the added effort will pay off in dividends of renewed energy and health.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Recommendations concerning records are undramatic and most citizens will wonder what the excitement is about. But during the New Deal and the war, many businesses had to establish special departments of highly skilled accountants and lawyers to prepare answers to government questionnaires for material already in the possession of some branch of the government. You paid for that twice: In taxes and in prices.

Just look at these paragraphs from the Hoover Commission:

"Approximately 18,500,000 cubic feet of federal records occupy more than 18,000,000 square-feet of federal space. This is equivalent to six Pentagons. Space costs are not less than $27 million annually. Actual surveys and official estimates carry this volume of records up to 17,000,000 cubic feet; 18,500,000 cubic feet is a weighted current estimate for the purposes of this study.

"Space occupied by records is operated and maintained consistently at a cost close to the actual rental paid. Annual expenditures for this purpose are not less than $20 million.

"Records in such a quantity are equivalent to 3,080,000 standard four-drawer filing cabinets costing $154 million at current prices.

"Approximately $1.2 billion for record making and record keeping apportioned over the departments and agencies in Washington and in the field have compelled a few departments and agencies to aggressively attack these excessive costs."

Of course, many of these records are made in multiple forms by the citizens who have to fill out endless questionnaires and forms in a vast variety of colored paper and fine printing which accomplish much the same objective as when the answers were written the first time. It all costs lots of money. The Hoover task force recommends the consolidation of records to save time and expense. For instance, in New York, the Maritime Commission, Army and Navy maintain separate record offices at wasteful cost. Often these records are about the same man. The task force says:

"Until recently General Accounting Office records were maintained in 16 different buildings in Washington with an annual maintenance and operation expense of $132,400 in addition to a $76,500 rental for non-government-owned buildings, or a total of $208,900. Consolidating these records in government-owned space in Cameron, Va., cut annual costs to $90,000 for a yearly savings of $118,900. Furthermore, the records scattered through many buildings occupied 305,000 square feet whereas when consolidated they occupied only 267,000 square feet of space."

Records are constantly being shipped across country, as they are needed, at huge cost and at the risk of being lost. During the war, this was a morale-killing nuisance, whenever a boy found himself in trouble, because somebody lost his "papers" and he had to start all over again taking physical and mental tests. The worst of it was that no matter who lost his records, GI Joe was at fault. The report says:

For example, even though there is a large Navy records center at San Bruno, Calif., Veterans Administration records on the west coast must be shipped to Philadelphia.

By Emilie Loring

Copyright 1947 by Emilie Loring. Published by Little Brown & Company. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR
"WHY are you tip-toeing round as if you'd been stealin', Debby?" Sarah Allen, dressed for her afternoon out, hailed her as she was slipping soundlessly by the door of Molly B's living room. "There ain't nobody in this house I know of who cares whether you're comin' or goin'."

"I wasn't tip-toeing, Sal, that is, not intentionally. I was practicing being light on my toes. Observe the technique." She took a few ballet steps, whirled and curtsied. "How'm I doing?" Sarah sniffed. "I have a feelin' you're starting out to do something you know you hadn't oughta do, Debby. You look white and scared. My sakes, you're not elopin' with that Clive Warner again, are you?"

"Where do you get that 'again'?" Did I ever elope with him?" "Tisn't like you to be so snappish, Debby. Want you tell me what you're up to? I can keep a secret."

"Oh, for crying out loud, I haven't a secret. I am going to the island to get a manuscript and I am coming directly back. If you can make a secret out of that to it, I'll be seeing you."

"There's a storm comin' up fast, Deb—"

She lost the rest of Sarah Allen's warning as she ran through the lower hall. She snatched the key from its hook and dashed down the garden walk between flower beds which flaunted an occasional red, purple or yellow blossom. Snuffles behind her? She stopped. The spaniel leaped on her with a joyous bark.

"Go home, Cocky. Go home." He sat back on his haunches and regarded her with grieving eyes. "Go home," she said again and ran on. When she reached the boathouse she looked back. The dog was where she had left him, a black lump of dejection. Trees bent and swayed and creaked. Leaves blew off thick as outsize brown rain. The wind caught and banged the boathouse door when she opened it. The sky was black with racing clouds. It would take her ten minutes to reach the island, five to the cabin if she ran, five more to pick up the manuscript, and the same time in reverse. She could make it before the storm really arrived. The lake wasn't rough yet. If it were she wouldn't make the attempt. She wasn't that crazy if she was crazy enough to be in love with a man who loved someone else.

Was she in love, she turned over the question as she picked up the oars and sent the boat ahead. Perhaps a curious sound behind her. She turned. The spaniel was following, his black ears floating on the surface of the water like fins. The lake was getting rougher each minute. He would drown.

"Cocky, Cocky, you—you pest. Come here, you darn little fool." She reached over and pulled the dog from the water. He curled against her feet with a whimper. She picked up the oars and the train of thought the rescue had interrupted. She had liked Tim better than any man she had ever met, she had realized that the night they had crashed on the stairs, that was why she had felt the sense of excitement, of adventure coming up. When he had told her of the girl in the Pacific theater the bottom had dropped out of her world. Pretty stupid of her not to have known why at the time, she had thought only that his marriage would spoil what promised to be a fine friendship between them, that his wife wouldn't want her husband to like a girl as much as he seemed to like her. And she had thought, why worry? I am here and the girl is far away. Why not enjoy his companionship while I have it?

The boat bobbed and danced as if it had gone crazy when she tried to fasten it to the ring in the float. Cocky whined and whimpered an accompaniment. Her palms were raw and red when finally she succeeded in making the painter fast. When she released her hold it pulled away from the ring and the boat danced off. She waded into the lake to her waist to catch it, but already it was several feet away. Back on the float she watched it bob and whirl. Drops which had been splashing on her face turned to solid sheets of rain.

"Looks like the island all night for us, Cocky-me-lad." She picked up the dog. "We've got to run for the cabin."

Trees creaked, birches and maples bent almost double, rain beat fragrance from the balsams. She ran along the trail, her feet going squish-squish, in the soaked pine needles. A pistol crack in the distance.

"Cocky, Cocky, that was thunder." The dog whined and licked her wet cheek. The storm closed about her, slowed her progress. The cabin at last. Another rumble, not so distant this time. Was the flash on the window reflected lightning? Suppose she had to spend the night here? Safe enough. The island was posted "No Trespassing." The key turned in the lock easily. The door swung open. She stepped in and stopped. Who had been here? Books that had been pulled from the shelves lay on the floor. A pane of glass near the lock in a rear window had been broken. Through the opening came the sound of rolling, rumbling thunder.

A man whose clothing dripped water was bending in front of the broad fireplace trying to coax a few sticks into a blaze. Her heart stopped beating. The blood seemed to leave her brain, her head felt light and empty. Was this wild-looking creature the Jap-crazy husband who threatened his wife with a revolver? Evidently the sound of the opening door had been muffled by thunder. Perhaps she could back out before he saw her. Cocky growled. He turned. Stared at her.

"If that cur so much as yips again—" His hoarse voice broke. A leveled revolver finished the sentence.

Timothy Grant released the knob of Deb's door. Was it possible she had called him "Tim, darling" in that agonized voice, or did he love her so much that he had imagined deep emotion where there had been only friendly anxiety?

It hadn't registered at first, he had been so amazed at her frantic, "Have they got you too?" Who had frightened her? She had been right about the hit-and-run accident, it had been intentional. Later Mark had told the number of the car which had knocked him out. It belonged to a suspect on McGregor's list, though it hadn't yet been proved that the owner had been at the wheel.

That was Deb's door being cautiously closed. She had gone. If he followed her his timing would be bad. She wouldn't listen now. The explanation he intended to have had better be postponed until she was through at the Center, which would be the moment the mystery of the tragedy in the game house was solved. The possibilities of that moment set his pulses hammering. He answered a buzz on the interoffice phone.

"Yes? Certainly. At once." Molly B. here to see him. What did it mean? She was a trustee of the Science Center but this was the first time she had been to the building since his installation as Head. He opened the door in response to her light tattoo.

"Come in. It's grand to see you." Even as he welcomed her he wondered why more gray-haired women with brilliant dark eyes didn't wear small American beauty red hats with a mink sling cape. The combination was a knockout on her.

"I won't be but a few minutes of your precious time, Tim." She lingered at the window. "There is no more beautiful view in the world to me than this. The hazy hills, the blue lake, white Beechcroft, the campus which at this distance resembles nothing as much as a toy village of pinkish brick buildings set in emerald lawns, even those racing dark clouds add to the picture."

She laughed. "Here I stand raving about the beauties of nature when I promised to take but a few minutes of your time."

"Sit here and tell me what's on your mind, Molly B." When she was seated he returned to his chair across the desk. She drew off her beige gloves and clasped her hands, ringless except for a wedding band and a huge diamond solitaire, on the desk in front of her.

"You may be sure it is something important or I wouldn't come here to consult you."

"Take all the time you want. I have a hunch it has to do with the late unpleasantness at the game house, right?"

"Right. I didn't dare talk from home for fear I might be overheard there or by a listener-in at this end. I've reached the stage where I suspect everyone. I don't like Scragg, Tim. I'm sure he knows more than he is telling. I hate having him in the house."

"Don't discharge him yet, Molly B. No harm can come to anyone at Beechcroft from him, he is being closely watched. Were you seen coming into this office?"

"Deb was waiting for an elevator when I stepped into the corridor. She had just time to tell me she would be late getting home before the door arrived. Clive Warner was coming out of the building as I entered. But that isn't what I came to talk about. Now that my mind has cleared of the shock and daze which followed the shooting of Henry Lander, I've had to break in a new legal adviser, I am beginning to think constructively."

"Or creatively?" "Go on, grin, I can take it. Perhaps my imagination has seized the bit in its teeth but it may get results. The other day I decided that my mind had been scuttling from possibility to probability long enough, that I would go to work on the solution of the mystery as I would on the plot of a novel."

Try, Stop Me

Ted Lawson, co-author of "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," told me a fine story about Alex de Seversky, who, like Lawson, lost a leg as a flyer in wartime. Seversky one day was trying to cheer a disconsolate airman in a similar predicament. "The loss of a leg," he said with conviction, "is really not so great a calamity. Look at me. I dance, I fly, I drive a car, I go everywhere."

"And another thing, if you get hit on a wooden leg, it doesn't hurt a bit! Here, try it!" The aviator took his cane and cracked it across Seversky's leg with terrific force. "You see," laughed Seversky. "If you hit an ordinary man like that he's in bed for five days! Cheer up, old man," he waived airily, and left the ward. In the corridor, he collapsed! The wounded aviator, of course, had hit him on his real leg!

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Navy captain disciplined for speaking rudely of Sen. Kilgore is a hero of several battles but this was his first engagement with a Democrat.

Ex-Commander Hugh Scott could have told him there's a difference between shooting the big guns of Democracy and shooting at the big shots of the Democrats.

Scott will be remembered as the Republican national chairman who trained in Iceland with the Navy and still couldn't put a chill on the Democrat's land forces.

I see Shostakovich is coming over here to whip up a peace plan if he can get clearance from President Truman and President Petrillo.

A Harvard astronomer heads up the cultural clamor which will come between the end of the basketball season and the opening of Coney Island.

We will have a wonderful opportunity to see 300 intellectuals gathered in one room. An intellectual is a man who can convince people that he is.

Important opening, the author, sensing failure, was holding his head in the wings. "Cheer up!" roared actress Tallulah Bankhead. "After all, your four other recent plays were flops, too."

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—Snow has left the streets of the city gleaming and slippery, and you eye them dubiously just before you enter Beth David hospital to keep your appointment to ride an ambulance on its emergency calls.

Joe Berlinger, the driver, comes out of the emergency room and into the foyer and you get back some of your confidence, because he looks capable and careful. Unless there is a cutting or mugging that makes the call a life-or-death thing, he probably will take it easy and not go around too many corners on two wheels.

Joe is a good-looking, medium-sized man who probably is the last volunteer ambulance driver in the city. He started seven years ago, when the war forced a manpower shortage, and now, long after his fellow volunteers have retired to their easy chairs, he continues it.

He is the head of a textile firm and president of the New York Guild for the Jewish Blind; he has an apartment on Park avenue and a house in the country. However, once a week he climbs into his fading khaki uniform and his jacket and reports for duty.

"It's the most fascinating job in the world," he says as you climb on the driver's seat beside him in the big, awkward bus. "If I had my way, I'd make everybody in the city drive an ambulance for a couple of weeks."

You ask if it is because it would give them a look at real suffering and hardship and make them tolerant.

"Well, partly that," Joe says, "but mostly because it would give them an idea of how their city ticks. You get a wonderful perspective in this thing. You explore the insides of the city and you go places that you might never otherwise see in your lifetime. You get to know New York."

JOE FLIPS BACK THE LID OF HIS CALLBOOK and notes that the first stop is in East 112th. An earnest young intern named Bob-something is sitting in the back and he grins and waves through the sliding glass panel.

The streets are quiet and glistening as Joe steers carefully

Mr., Mrs. Vandervort Complimented By Class At Going-Away Party

Couple Moving To Illinois

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vandervort and daughter, Carol Ann, of Watt street are moving Saturday to make a home at Bloomington, Ill., where he will be associated with the Ralston Purina plant there.

The couple was honored at a cooperative dinner Wednesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gerhardt of South Pickaway street.

Harper Bible Class of First Evangelical United Brethren church arranged the going-away party to honor the Vandervorts, who were charter members of the class.

Vandervort was unable to attend, as he already has gone to Bloomington. The group made a long distance telephone call to him during the evening, to say "Happy Birthday"—also an even of Wednesday.

Charles Kirkpatrick, on behalf of the class, presented a gift to Mrs. Vandervort. Places were set at the dinner tables for the entire class, composed of 40 members, and Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce of Washington Township, who were guests.

An unique table decoration was arranged. A pipe, from Vandervort's collection, centered the table. This was surrounded by greenery and lighted green tapers.

'OPEN YOUR HEART'-PLEA

Countians Slow To Back Heart Disease Campaign

Pickaway Countians are slow in paying attention to the greatest killer in their midst, Dr. Walter Heine of Circleville indicated Thursday.

The physician, secretary of the county medical society, said that although heart diseases are taking more lives than any other cause in this area, interest in the National Heart Drive has been lacking.

The physician urged that countians make contributions to the campaign which will finance greater scientific research into the causes and cures of heart disorders.

He stressed that contributions can be made directly to any county physician or to the Central Ohio Heart Committee in Columbus or to the National Heart Committee in New York City.

"STRANGELY," Dr. Heine said, "persons who know they have heart disorders are ignoring the very campaign that might prolong their lives."

The Circleville doctor declared that "this campaign is no fly-by-night affair. It is part of a crucial battle and every citizen holds a tremendous stake in the outcome of the struggle." He continued:

"The battle is directed against the invisible enemy, heart disease—our nation's leading cause of death. The heart diseases have raised their toll of disability and death until they today constitute the foremost menace to the health of the nation. Despite this fact, scientific research has lagged behind minimum requirements."

"To help meet the urgent needs of this outstanding health problem, the American Heart Association is conducting a nationwide campaign."

"The financial goal of this campaign is $5,000,000 to finance a three-point program of scientific research, public and professional education and community service.

"Public support behind this drive will make possible an expanded research program in such neglected fields as rheumatic fever, high blood pressure, and hardening of the arteries, which are responsible for 90 percent of all heart disease."

"SPECIAL emphasis is placed on research in this campaign, because that is the arch upon which medical progress rests."

"No one who has watched the progress made against smallpox, yellow fever, typhus and tuberculosis can doubt that science, if given the complete cooperation of the American people, will find the answers to the many unsolved problems of heart disease."

Mudslinging Tack Taken By Soviets

Bucar Book Cited As Red Bludgeon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—The unbelievable ineptitude of Soviet propaganda since the Kremlin decided to abandon finesse in favor of the heavy hand has been demonstrated forcefully.

Never in all the long and tawdry history of smearing has anything quite so ludicrous appeared as the book reputedly written by renegade Annabelle Bucar, intended to blow the lid off American diplomatic double dealing in Moscow.

Many observers who know this 34-year-old ex-employee of the U. S. embassy in the Russian capital have expressed serious doubts that she actually wrote a book called "The Truth—About American Diplomats."

The actual authorship, however, is not important. Nor are the charges likely to survive even the most casual scrutiny.

What is significant and in a way dangerous is the obvious inclination of the Kremlin to utilize the most elementary type of crude mudslinging in its efforts to douse the flickering spirit of Democracy which a few months ago began to show its strength in a manner menacing to Soviet Communism.

THE RUSSIANS boast that they virtually have eliminated illiteracy in their country, so it may be assumed that the Bucar book will be widely read, partially through fanaticism, partially under compulsion.

Miss Bucar claimed that the embassy and its staff was one vast network of anti-Soviet espionage and she cited visits made by couriers to Vladivostok, Murmansk, Archangel, Odessa, the Ukraine and Byelo-Russia which in point of fact she says were spying orgies.

The true tenor of Miss Bucar's book is shown by a charge that U. S. Ambassador Bedell Smith, a great gentleman, a soldier universally admired by the Soviet high command during the war, and a polished diplomat peddled fountain-pens, watches, cigarettes and suits of clothing on the black market.

It is reflected further in her allegation that Smith sponsored and encouraged a system of intimidation inside the embassy rivalling those of Machiavelli or Richelieu.

But these things merely mean that the Soviets are swinging a bludgeon instead of wielding a rapier.

Special Election Is Ruled Out

ASHTABULA, Feb. 24—The city of Ashtabula was under legal restraint today from holding a special election to name a city manager and a solicitor.

Common Pleas Court Judge W. S. Slocum of Painesville, assigned to the case, ruled yesterday that neither the city charter nor an amendment passed in November authorized the holding of a special election to select the two executives.

End To 1946 Divorce Asked

Petition requesting divorce has been filed in common pleas court by Jean E. Ellinger of 424 North Pickaway street against her husband, Jack H. Ellinger.

Mrs. Ellinger's petition states the couple was married Aug. 31, 1946, in Mars, Pa., and have no children. Her petition accuses her husband of gross neglect of duty.

Feds Report Ohio's Gambling Is Worst In The Toledo Area

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24—Gambling law enforcement officers in the Toledo area are the worst in the state, according to a report just published by the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The report says taxes were paid on slot machines in 4,563 places in Ohio during fiscal 1948.

A breakdown of the report in the offices of A. J. Pfeiffer, chief of the wage and excise tax division in Columbus, shows how the machines were distributed over the state. Pfeiffer says—"You can tell from this just where they are clamping down."

The Cleveland district, largest in Ohio, had machines scattered over 1,121 different spots. Cincinnati, the second largest district, had the best record—only 586 premises with tax-paying slots.

COLUMBUS areas is one of the smallest in the state. Columbus had only 596 places with coin-operated gambling devices. Toledo topped the list with 2,260.

The federal government collects $100 tax on each machine, and each of the places listed may have more than one machine. Pfeiffer, whose business it is to administer the tax for the Columbus district says some of the places contain as high as 35 machines.

However, Pfeiffer says the main value of his card-file, which contains the name and address of every reported machine, is of value only as a source of clues for local officers.

It says the list may give county prosecutors and the like some idea of where to look for the slots. However, Pfeiffer points out:

"The fact that the man paid the tax in July, doesn't mean he was operating the machine in August, or even the next day."

Personal investigation still is necessary to clinch the case against an operator.

Pfeiffer handles 28 counties in the southeastern part of the state. He says that the cities in this area are practically clear of slots.

MOST OF THE machines are in the rural areas—filling stations with a back room—and a few commercial rural gambling establishments, according to Pfeiffer.

However, he makes it clear that he is not speaking for the other areas. He says: "They may have different problems."

15 RACES WON ALREADY

Delaware Youth Found To Have Way With Fillies

MIAMI, Feb. 24—Benny Civitello, an 18-year-old Newark, Del., youth, may never be classed with Don Juan, Rudolph Valentino and Errol Flynn as great lovers—but he has a way with the fillies.

Before the bobby sox set gets excited and storms Hialeah Park, it should be explained that Civitello is an apprentice jockey and his charms are usually practiced on filly horses.

Trainer Jimmy Radney, who has the young rider under control, declares: "There's no denying it. He has a way with fillies. He must talk to 'em or something."

Radney cited the record. Of the first 15 races Civitello won at Hialeah this winter, nine were aboard representatives of the so-called weaker sex—if that cliché holds true in the horse world.

"I guess the answer to his success with fillies and mares would be found in Civitello's hands," Radney said. He elaborated by saying:

"FILLIES don't like to be handled roughly."

Radney doesn't want anyone to get the idea that Civitello can't ride studs and geldings. The trainer claims the promising youngster "can ride anything."

The trainer admitted that Civitello's riding "in the afternoon isn't quite as finished as it is in the morning—but that will come with experience."

Radney first noticed the jockey's talents when he put Civitello on a filly named Coral Way. The snippy little horse had a "bad habit of running herself into the ground and then just stopping," Radney explained.

The trainer vaulted Civitello into the saddle, however, at Garden State Park last summer. Radney said "she hung on like a bulldog and was beaten just by a nose." The trainer added:

"I said 'what is this?' and put Benny right back on her the next time she started—at Delaware Park—and Coral Way won in a gallop."

That was Civitello's first victory—and also the first win for Coral Way.

Since then Benny has ridden more than 100 winners, including Big Story in the Atlantic City Inaugural, his only stake victory to date.

Tourney Sidelights

Only an estimated 1,087 cage patrons were on hand Wednesday for three of the top games played so far in Pickaway County tournament and for added special treats.

One of the added attractions to the Wednesday session was the Wayne-Washington elementary schools band, directed by Mrs. Bernelle Wojciak.

The group is composed solely of youngsters in the eighth grade or lower in the two schools, headed by a bevy of five drum majorettes.

One of the young beauties, Peggy Anderson, third grader from Washington Township, stole the show between the first and second games with solo exhibition of baton-twirling.

Other leaders of the band were Yvonne Happeney, Joyce Graffis, Eileen Fyffe and Linda Storts.

Possibly the least perturbed of the schoolmen concerning the small crowd Wednesday were the doorkeepers, who have held their vigil since the tournament opened. The men were able to see most of the games without steadily taking stubs or stamping hands.

Harold Strous, on the eastern door, however, was not too happy as he watched his Salt Creek Warrior quint dropped from tourney competition by New Holland. Even his added bits of coaching from the sidelines failed to spark the team.

Other doorkeepers who have been on duty are C. E. Mahaffey of Ashville, John McPherson of Darby and Harry Sharrett of Pickaway.

Tournament Manager John Hardin took a rest from his usual humming-bird activities because of the small Wednesday turnout, making perhaps only 30 round trips through the coliseum to see that all was well.

OSU's Frosh Thinlies Looming As Top Team In Western Loop

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24—The cream of the crop of Ohio high school track stars will make Larry Snyder's Ohio State thinclads one of the best outfits in Buckeye annals and possibly the strongest in the Western Conference next season.

Gene Cole, former Lancaster ace, heads the list of star-studded yearlings in the Buckeye camp.

Cole set a national interscholastic record last Spring in winning the quarter-mile in 48 seconds flat. He also chalked up triumphs in the 100 and 220-yard dashes to become the first triple winner in Ohio's Class "A" competition since Jesse Owens turned the trick in 1933.

Bob Bell of Worthington and Al Wood of Dayton are other top flight dash men. Bell capped the 220 and 440-yard events in the district meet and placed second among Class "B" quarter-milers.

INDEPENDENCE'S Walt Kie-vay is one of the most touted speedsters to enroll at the Buckeye school. Kie-vay won both the 100 and 220-yard Class "B" finals for the third straight year. Only five others have ever matched that feat.

Backing up Cole in the quarter mile are Paul Dimmick, Cleveland; Bill Smith, Columbus West; Dave Jones, Lakewood; and Herman Turner, Cincinnati.

Ray Hamilton, flashy halfback of last year's freshman gridgers, is another state champion in the Scarlet and Gray fold. Hamilton won the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 seconds flat.

Lenny Truex of Lima Central rates high in the middle-distance events. Others who bear watching are Roger Ruetnik, Vermillion, and Dave Youmans, Plainesville.

Akron's John Holoman, Walter Drazler of Cleveland and Truex comprise the Buckeyes' best candidates for the mile and two-mile runs.

Truex finished a close second in the State Class A mile championship race and Holoman notched the state cross-country trophy in 1947.

Assistant Coach Charlie Beetham is not so optimistic about the frosh aspirants in the field events, but they'll do much to bolster the 1950 varsity.

JOHN JARVIS of Marietta and Jerry McColister of Mentor led the rest of the field in the discus and shot put events. Jarvis placed in the 1947 state meet in the discus.

Springfield's Mahlon Merchant and Charles McClay, a transfer from Reynoldsburg, rank as high jump prospects. Don Reaver of Columbus is the number one pole vaulter on the freshman squad but Ralph Armstrong of Cleveland, who has vaulted 12½ feet, will be a strong contender.

Trotters After 38th Victory

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24—The Harlem Globetrotters will seek their 38th consecutive victory tonight against a House of David squad in the feature of a basketball doubleheader in Cleveland.

The Globetrotters have hung up a record of 87 victories in a row and only one loss in their last 106 games. In 22 years they have won 3,144 games against 231 defeats.

The New York Nationals meet the Kansas City Stars in the first game of the double bill.

Jesse Owens, Olympic champion of 1936, will act as master of ceremonies at between-game proceedings.

Norway seems to be in the middle of the present international jostling, and that's as comfortable as fish bones in the grave. The western countries want Norway in the North Atlantic Alliance, while Russia has been offering the Norwegians an opportunity to play doubles with them on a non-aggression pact. It's a hot spot in a cold war. No Scandinavian country has easily been intimidated, but Norway has 122 miles of common boundary with the Russ. That's a mighty sharp talking point. In these days it seems that staying neutral is tougher than putting toothpaste back in the tube.

Church of the Nazarene has a bushel basket standing near the door. Idea is to get it full of pennies, a novel way of securing funds to help finance construction of a new parsonage. The plan is not limited to church members alone. Any person can toss pennies into the basket or give them to a church member. It's a unique idea and is bound to be a success. But the banker may be a wee bit peeved when that bushel of coppers is unloaded.

Farm Expert Wags Warning Finger Against Spring Wheat

Best Says Odds Against Early Grain

Experiment Station Figures Cited

A flinger of warning was being shaken Thursday at Pickaway County farmers planning to drill Spring wheat.

County Agent Larry Best declared the odds are against a decent yield here. Spring wheat generally is drilled only on land that was not seeded the previous Fall due to late corn harvests.

Best said that Dr. C. A. Lamb, associate agronomist in charge of wheat investigations for the Wooster agricultural experiment station, this year is shaking his head "no" when asked whether to plant Spring wheat.

The state specialist states flatly that Spring wheat is not a good crop for Ohio. In addition, it has poor market value. It is objectionable to millers and is usable only as feed.

Average figures obtained from a 13-year test made at Wooster show that oats yielded two and one-fourth as much grain on a pound per acre basis as spring barley yielded one and one-half times as much.

IN VARIOUS tests in North-western Ohio, Spring wheat has yielded from less than one-half to almost as much as winter wheat, depending upon the season. In Southern Ohio, especially, Dr. Lamb reports, it is difficult to get seed back some years.

It has also been found that oats will yield more feed or dollar value per acre than either spring wheat or spring barley.

"Pickaway farmers will be well advised to grow oats on any land which was planned for Spring-sown grain crop or on which Winter wheat did not get sown for one reason or another," Best said. He added:

"Use the Columbia or Clinton variety and treat the seed if it has not been treated.

"A complete fertilizer used at the rate of 200 to 300 pounds per acre will not only increase the oats yield, but will insure a more satisfactory meadow if a grass-legume seeding is made in the oats."

West Ministers Book Confab

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 — A meeting of the foreign ministers of Great Britain and France with Secretary of State Dean Acheson is contemplated soon to deal with the problems of Western Germany.

It was anticipated today that the meeting will coincide with the signing of the pact for the North Atlantic Alliance. At this meeting, the foreign ministers of Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and possibly Norway, would be present.

There is considerable support for a meeting on the North American continent because of the contribution both the United States and Canada are making.

According to a survey of the U. S. Department of Agriculture the average American smoked 115 packs of cigarettes in 1946.

Water Storage Tank Explodes

CANTON, Feb. 24 — Mrs. Grace Kleptach, 77, of Canton, was recovering today in Aultman hospital from serious injuries suffered when a water storage tank exploded.

She received a fractured vertebra and a broken ankle. The tank, with a 300-gallon capacity, exploded yesterday when an electric cut off switch failed to function on the tank's electric pump.

The force of the tremendous pressure built up in the tank drove it two feet through Mrs. Kleptach's kitchen floor close to where the aged woman was standing.

Hospital Denies Accusation In Wrong Baby Case

TOLEDO, Feb. 24 — Riverside hospital authorities today issued a blanket denial of charges of negligence in connection with the delivery of a "wrong baby" to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colvin of Toledo.

The hospital has been named along with Dr. Abraham H. Steinberg as a defendant in a $100,000 damage suit filed in Lucas County common pleas court by the Colvins.

According to the suit, Dr. Steinberg arranged for Mrs. Colvin's confinement at the hospital and attended at the birth of a baby girl on April 12, 1943.

The Colvins allege that they took the child home the next day, only to be advised by Dr. Steinberg the following night that a mistake had been made. They said the doctor then took back the first child, and left a second female baby.

The couple is seeking return of the first child.
